This is an internal Photo from the complex, drawn-out process leading to the Birth of ResearchCity

LAURENCE LOEWE 5611 SANDHILL DRIVE MIDDLETON WI 53562

Notes on this metaphor: It's obviously abstract, yet still instructive because * Every birth is messy and complicated - so is sorting through the data here. * Most pictures of actual births are not beautiful - same for the data here. Why then still show it? - Its my way to pledge future transparency in Reality: * Everything about ResearchCity MUST be transparent or else it will fail. * Transparency must include its beginnings lest conspiracy theories kill it.

Therefore, I, Laurence Loewe of Laodicea herewith pledge at my own expense to be as transparent as possible to simplify global decisions at Datageddon

If a man would trade all the wealth of his house to give love for life a chance, all his buzz would be declared to be utterly crazy.

But what is the house of a fool worth, when he is likely to die in an accidental nuclear winter he could prevent if he cared?

About this access code:

The case is now closed, so this code serves as a way for interested parties to see that not AI but I myself, LLoL, produced the files of my Good News Pack and that I am serious about being as transparent as possible.

Summary: In my very imperfect attempt to explain to a local court & bank why they ought to please give my marathon a bit more time to save their world too, I submitted tons of exhibits & pleadings to delay forced foreclosure. See web at https://wcca.wicourts.gov/caseDetail.html?caseNo=2024CV000867&countyNo=13 - I failed. To save my research I sold to a gracious last minute home buyer. I since ran down proceeds of that sale to allow You to give ResearchCity a chance.

To avoid confusion with more mature documents, I will label as
